It should already be saved in your download folder.

QuestionWhat do I do if the only way I seem to be able to create a PDF file is to go to export and select PDF, but then it always seems to be on the internet and I don't want it to be?*Community Answer

You need to set your default PDF viewer to the app you want it to open with. By default, it opens with your default internet browser. If you want to change it and you're on Windows, just right-click on the PDF and choose "Open With...", choose the app you want, and check the box marked "Always use this app."

QuestionIs it safe to use online PDF converters?

Community Answer

Always make sure it is something you can trust. Online PDF converters can mislead you into downloading a virus instead of your converted files. To keep it safer, go on ones you know are safe.

QuestionHow do I create a PDF document?

Johann Hill

Community Answer

Creating a pdf document is simple and easy. If you are editing a Microsoft Word document and you wish to save it in PDF, then simply go to the top left menu and click "save as" or press Ctrl + Shift + S to directly move to "save as" menu. Save the doc into PDF format. If you have an image/png/jpg file you want to convert to PDF then visit a site that creates PDFs, upload your image to the site and click the Convert button and download your PDF document.

Tips

- Always save the file even if you've saved the PDF file. It's usually easier to edit.
- The links in the text will not work in PDF format, so be sure to write the entire URL (<http://something.com>) instead of linking text (creating hyperlinks).
